Manager insight – 31 July 2009

The driver of the Money Market Portfolio's performance is the level of interest rates offered on the call deposits it holds with a range of New Zealand banks. In turn, the returns from these call deposits are driven by New Zealand's Official Cash Rate (OCR).

The Reserve Bank of New Zealand (RBNZ) sets the OCR. At its July meeting it again left the rate at 2.50%. This is the lowest it has been since inception of the OCR in 1999 and represents a 5.75% decline from 12 months ago when the OCR was 8.25%, as shown in the accompanying chart. This rapid reduction in the OCR has been in response to the deteriorating global outlook, tightening credit conditions, widening interest rate spreads and continued contraction in the New Zealand economy.

The RBNZ reiterated at the July OCR meeting that "we continue to expect to keep the OCR at or below the current level through until the latter part of 2010". Therefore, barring a significant economic recovery over this period, the performance of the Money Market Portfolio is likely to remain around the current level and returns from cash investments are unlikely to reach the highs of the past few years.

The Portfolio remains invested in call deposits with four New Zealand banks, providing a diversified bank exposure. It is also covered under the New Zealand Crown Deposit Guarantee Scheme, thereby offering a high level of security for clients' money.
